U. S., BRITAIN
BATTLE FOE ON
BARTER FRONT

Economic Warfare Hits Axis
In Vital Requirements
For Supplies.

(By Wide World)
LONDON—A half million dollars worth of sheepskin gloves are bought in Spain and 3,000 miles away in Russia two months later German fingers freeze on the triggers of their rifles.

A million dollars is deposited in Turkey to buy dried fruits, and the German people tighten their belts another notch.

This is economic warfare—slow, unspectacular, but far-reaching and deadly. Since December 7 America has taken her place beside the British on this war front as well as on the fighting fronts of Australia, India and the middle east.

On the door of a small apartment just off famed Berkeley Square a small brass plate has appeared. It reads: "American embassy economic warfare section."

None of the small staff behind those doors wears a uniform nor carries a gun.

But their job is to kill the enemy, too—with money and sometimes barter, that device the Nazis made so popular.

Each day some of the staff go to the British ministry of economic warfare where they sit with three British economic experts around a table filled with reports—reports of cotton for sale in Turkey, opium in Persia, Tungsten in Portugal and hides in Irak. Cables start going out.

Buy the cotton—Germany needs it for clothing.

But the opium—Germany needs it for drugs.

Buy the tungsten—Germany needs it for munitions.

Buy the hides—German soldiers are short on boots.

What the price is doesn't matter. Nor does it matter that Britain and America control more hides and cotton than they can use.

Britain has been engaged in this type of warfare since the war began—pouring out millions. She fought battles in the Balkans, for chrome, oil, bauxite, tobacco and a hundred other items.

Now the battlefields are narrowed. America and Britain have shut Germany and Italy out of the South American field through the blockade. That has become a naval matter and Germany now can buy only in the places she can reach by land.

Turkey is the main battleground, closely followed by Spain, Portugal and North Africa.

Agent of America, Britain and the Axis countries scour these regions daily in a grim race to find something of use.

Sometimes it isn't money the sellers want but barter for something they need.

And the hard-pressed Nazis find their own device used against them. With their industries tied up with war orders and their railroads overloaded with troop and munition transport, they cannot guarantee deliveries.

The United Nations, with control of the seas and plenty of money to buy goods in South America for barter if they do not have the articles available themselves, can supply anything that is asked.

"This is one war front on which the Axis is in retreat," one American official asserted.

SOVIETS CRUSH NAZI GARRISON NEAR KHARKOV

Seize Important Stronghold in 40-Minute Dawn Fight; Germans Using Infantry.

A Russian communique made no specific claim of further Red army gains in the drive to recapture the Kharkov industrial center, but declared that "during the night of May 20-21 our troops continued offensive battles in the Kharkov direction."

It said that "the Germans, disregarding enormous losses, have made counter-attacks attempting to hold up the offensive of our troops," but added that "these attempts of the enemy are being defeated."

(A London military commentator said that the northern wing of Timoshenko's army continued a slow advance despite the German counter-measures, but that the southern wing of the Russian attack seemed to have been checked.)

Russian reports indicated that the Axis flanking thrust in the Garvenkova area south of Kharkov had been blocked.

"On the Kerch peninsula (where the German high command claims final victory) battles continued in the eastern section," a government communique declared.

German defenders of Kharkov are suffering defeat and heavy losses in manpower and equipment in attempts to hold up the Soviet offensive, the Soviet information bureau said in its mid-day bulletin.

On the Leningrad front Russian troops cut a road between two enemy centers of resistance and killed 600 Germans to repulse Nazi counter-attacks intended to restore the line, and Red army artillery and mortar fire accounted for 300 more on the northwestern sectors, the information bureau reported.

Sofia dispatches, cleared through censorship to Switzerland, indicate Bulgarians now regret their entry into the Axis last spring and speak of a peace by compromise.

"Even the most fanatical followers of Germany," said a dispatch to the Neue Zuercher Zeitung, "doubt that the Axis powers will be able to bring about a really decisive victory against the enemy coalition."

Berlin Claims Soviets Repelled

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts)—(AP)—Heavy fighting is continuing in the Kharkov sector of the eastern front, with Nazi forces repelling strong Russian attacks supported by tanks, the Nazi high command declared today.

The Russians are suffering heavy losses in the battle, which has resulted in destruction of 63 more Red army tanks, a communique said.

The German air force was said to be ranging over the battlefield in great strength, supporting the Nazi ground troops by strafing and bombing the attacking Russians.

The high command also reported strong Russian attacks were developing in the Lake Ilmen sector southeast of Leningrad, but declared these assaults likewise were being beaten off with heavy Soviet losses.

Axis Planes Scout Malta, North Africa

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts)—(AP)—Axis reconnaissance planes and bombers were active over Malta and North Africa yesterday, the Italian high command reported today, but it did not mention any activity on the Libyan land front.

(British headquarters in Cairo reported a minor patrol clash on the southern flank of the Libyan front, in which Axis armored cars were said to have withdrawn after being engaged by British forces.)

The high command announced that Italian submarines had sunk three merchant ships totaling 29,000 tons "near the American coast."

Refuse To Talk Terms With Hitler

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's labor party will refuse to negotiate a post-war settlement with the Hitler government, Laborite Lord Nathan said today during debate in lords on post-war policy regarding Germany.

"We will refuse to negotiate with the Hitler government and will insist upon the decisive destruction of the power of German militarism," he declared. "The labor party is determined upon a total, complete and unmistakable victory for which there can be no going back."

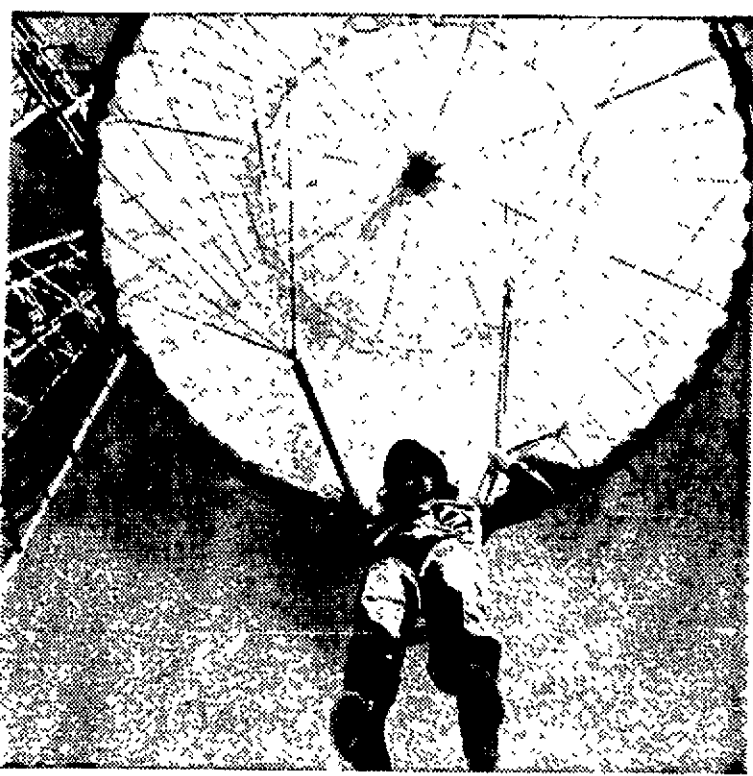

Nathan agreed, however, that a spirit of justice "without revenge" should prevail during peace negotiations.

Goering Reveals Cut In Food Rations

MEXICAN PLANT HEALS WOUNDS

Scientists Use Weed as Means to End Gangrene in War Wounds.

AUSTIN, Tex.—Indian tribes of Mexico, noted for quick recoveries from serious wounds, used a plant that American scientists today hope will end gangrene in war wounds and save thousands of lives in army field hospitals.

The plant has been revealed as Castilian Malva. An unnamed Mexico City physician called it to the attention of doctors at San Antonio, Tex. The Upjohn laboratory took up the search, and now, Dr. Carl Albers, associate professor of pharmacy at the University of Texas here, is conducting experiments to determine how best to grow, harvest and cure the plant.

Castilian Malva is a small leafy plant which grows in Mexico, Texas, California and British Columbia. It is related to the holyhock and hibiscus in the flower plants, and to cotton and okra among the food and utility plants. Though new as a scientific medicine, it has long been used as a domestic remedy in Mexico.

It may be used equally well as a dusting powder, a salve or in liquid form. Physicians explain that its value rests in a power to arrest degeneration of wounded and infected human tissues. "The use of malva will revolutionize the treatment of wounded in this war," Dr. Albers predicted.

FORMER BUCYRIAN DIES BUCYRUS—Mrs. O. L. Martin received word Wednesday of the death in St. Petersburg, Fla., of her daughter, Mrs. Adele Winkler, 43. Mrs. Winkler had been a patient in the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn. She is survived by her husband and four children. Burial will be made in Roncoveite, W. Va., Saturday.

PHOTOGRAPHER DIES CLEVELAND—(AP)—Heart disease was fatal yesterday to James E. Griffin, 79, past president of the Photographers Association of America.

ment workers, the No. 2 Nazi who is Adolf Hitler's official heir, announced the slice in food rations and said:

"Nature has really treated us unkindly. Last year we hoped for record crops. Then rains came and the harvest was reduced.

"Now, however much we enjoy the warm sun we are longing for rain falls to bring what the farmer needs."

Then he told the workers: "You must fulfill the fuhrer's demands even if they necessitate longer working hours."

Reports from Germany, including those brought out by correspondents released from internment, had long made it plain that the hours of German armament workers, especially, had been extended to such extremes that the danger point had been reached.

Vichy Says U. S. Troops At Gibraltar

LONDON—(AP)—Reuters' (British) news agency today circulated a Vichy dispatch reporting intense activity at Gibraltar and the arrival of 5,000 American troops en route to an unknown destination.

The dispatch said: "A telegram from Algiers to Vichy states that an aircraft carrier escorted by two cruisers entered Gibraltar roadstead last night followed by a steamer carrying 5,000 American troops whose destination is unknown."

(There was no confirmation in responsible quarters of the Vichy information and Washington had no comment concerning American troops.)

where the Japanese suffered a disastrous defeat in January.

Despite the extent of the new enemy drive in eastern China, usually well-informed foreign sources doubted these operations signaled an all-out offensive to crush free China.

The Japanese campaign in Chekiang and other eastern provinces, they maintained, is aimed exclusively at occupying bases from which United Nations bombers could strike at Japan, or land after bombing Japan from the east.

For the protection of her home industries, Japan believes she must occupy such eastern Chinese bases as Lishui and Shushen, the informants said. These and other bases have been bombed repeatedly since the American attack on Japanese cities last month.

U. S., Aussie Planes Renew Offensive

MELBOURNE, Australia—(AP)—American and Australian planes resumed their aerial offensive, after a one day lapse due to bad weather, with heavy attacks on the two chief Japanese invasion bases in the area northwest of Australia, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The Allied planes attacked the Japanese airdrome at Koepang, in the Netherlands half of Timor island, and shipping and a sea-plane base at Dili, in the Portuguese half.

Two grounded Japanese planes were destroyed at Koepang, the airdrome runways were damaged and big fires were started among buildings.

Allied fighter planes spoiled another Japanese raid on Port Moresby, New Guinea, by prompt interception and downed four of the 12 Japanese navy-zero fighter planes participating.

Koepang, 350 miles northwest of Australia, has been a favorite target for MacArthur's planes.

Ohioan Among 48 Interned At Manila

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A list of 48 American government officials who have been interned by the Japanese in Manila, made public today by the state department, contained the name of one Ohioan, George M. Abbott, consul, with his wife and daughter, of Cleveland Heights.

The state department is experiencing some difficulty in efforts to have those interned repatriated in exchange for diplomats and other nationals of Japan, because of the reluctance of Japanese officials to consider repatriation of any American nationals captured in American territory taken over by Jap forces.

GET ULTIMATUM States Told to Remove Truck 'Barriers' in 10 Days.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Thirty-eight states today had 10 days to eliminate trucking regulations impeding the war effort.

If they do not act by then, the National Governors' conference and the Council of State governments will ask President Roosevelt to proclaim a federal standard trucking code, effective nationwide.

This policy of the governors organization was announced by Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, chairman of the governors conference executive committee, after a meeting yesterday with federal officials. Only states having trucking laws conforming to or more liberal than the federal standard code are California, Maryland, Michigan, Montana, New Mexico, New York, Rhode Island, Utah, West Virginia and Wyoming.

FACE TRIAL FOR DRAFT EVASION

Four Ohioans Cited In Federal Court Charges.

TOLEDO—(AP)—Three men charged with failure to report for induction into the army, and Leo C. Shealy, 31, Lima, charged with failure to report at a camp for conscientious objectors, face trial for draft evasion in federal court today.

Kenneth W. Mohler, 22, Marion, and John P. Emmitt, Toledo, and Floyd N. Barker, 24, Van Wert, were held for failure to report for army duty.

A federal jury yesterday found Stanley Russell Spangler, 26, Deshler, O., and Waldo E. Counsellman, 23, McClure, guilty of charges they did not report for induction.

POLLY GETS IT

Pet Receives Sugar Ration so She Can Have Her Coffee.

ADRIAN, Mich.—(AP)—Mrs. Adam Johnston has obtained a sugar rationing card for her Polly, a fastidious parrot, after explaining to a rationing board that it was necessary for both the family's peace of mind and the bird's health.

Polly's peculiarities include a dislike for cookies, candy and water but insistence on coffee three times daily—with sugar. The rationing board granted Polly a card for one pound of sugar a month under the "pet provision" of the rationing board.

Doolittle Says Raid on Tokyo Was Carefully Planned Inside U. S.

Shangri-La—my faith in American fighting men has never been so strong. We have in our training centers, on our production lines, the pattern from which will be built many more surprises for Japan and Germany. It is the ultimate pattern for our own victory."

Japs Call Doolittle Announcement 'Trick'

TOKYO—(Japanese Broadcast Recorded by U. P. at San Francisco)—Tokyo radio today termed President Roosevelt's announcement that Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle led the bombing mission on Japan, proper "just another trick to switch world attention from Allied disaster."

"The sudden statement by the Washington government in regard to the American raid over Tokyo is just another trick of President Roosevelt to switch world attention from the Allied defeat in the Coral sea," the broadcast said.

"They (the Washington government) added that President Roosevelt and his clique are desperately trying to conceal the sinking of the United States aircraft carriers of the Yorktown and Saratoga classes."

(Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced that the enemy version of Allied losses in the Coral sea battle was "entirely fictional.")

Tokyo radio said Doolittle's report of the raid on Japan "eloquently reveals" the "fictional nature" of the raid.

"Seventy-five (sic) American pilots were awarded medals. How many of them can stand on their own feet? Doolittle said that the American raiders could not see the result of the bombings because of low altitude."

"This statement reveals that the Americans fled before they confirmed the outcome of their attack."

townfolk sign an affidavit in which certain allegations are made concerning the conduct of the teachers or superintendent," the prosecutor stated.

At the time Supt. Weekley was suspended, several Butler residents signed the alleged charge against him.

In his statement, Lutz added that he hoped his comments "will help the board so that in its next school year this trouble will not again arise to the detriment of the welfare of the pupils of the school district and will not tend to foster ill-feeling among the citizens of the community to the extent that other crimes might be committed."

"All that the board must exercise is leadership, determination to pursue a policy which a majority of the members should agree to, and at no time should there be waiver to the pursuit of that policy," he said.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, MAY 21, 1942.

These are the times when people find they can do what they have to do.

Things being as they are, yesterday's precipitation will probably be referred to as "a billion dollar rain."

Some things continue fairly normal in spite of the war—and there's the pleasant thought that the housecleaning season is about over.

Offensive Action Coming Soon

EXCEPT for the fact that the idea is being so widely publicized, an allied invasion of western Europe might be expected any day now—but it is not customary to make advance announcement of contemplated military movements with such fanfare as has marked apparently authoritative utterances from London and Washington in the past few days.

Yesterday's assurance by Sir Stafford Cripps that Britain's heavy air offensive against Germany is a prelude to ultimate invasion, for which strength is being amassed, closely followed the spread of news that a large expeditionary force had reached Ireland from the United States—which may be assumed to have disturbed, rather than "comforted" the enemy.

While the war in Russia is by no means at an end, the situation there is much better than could have been anticipated even a few months ago and it cannot be doubted that either continuance of air attacks from Great Britain, or quick establishment of a strong western front, would ease the task of Russia in driving out the invaders and thus shorten the reign of Hitler in Germany.

Secretary of State Hull is not given to loose talk and he must have had some basis for his statement yesterday that he sees "grounds for hope that victory for the United Nations might come sooner than had been expected earlier this year."

It may be assumed that conditions in Germany, Italy, and the occupied countries, are better known in high governmental circles than to the public in general, and present expressions of greater assurance of victory in a shorter time than had been anticipated heretofore, bring a note of cheer that should serve to stimulate even greater efforts to quicken the end of war.

Buying Bonds From Earnings

THIS is everybody's war—and everybody must help finance it. This is the gist of a recent statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in which he pointed to the need for increased purchases by individuals of United States savings bonds.

During the next year, said the secretary, the nation will probably have to borrow upwards of $35,000,000,000. And then he made this pertinent observation: "If the government is compelled to go to the commercial banks for the bulk of these funds, the result will be to increase inflationary tendencies which are already serious."

"When bonds are purchased with savings out of current income, on the other hand, such savings help to reduce excess consumer income which, if spent for a limited supply of consumer goods, would tend to force prices up. It is for this reason, among others, that we are going directly to the people for as much as possible of the money needed for the war."

Mr. Morgenthau recommends a wide extension of the payroll savings plan for bond purchasing.

No 'Master Race' In the World

SUGGESTIONS that the people of this country establish themselves as a "master race" are silly, says Dr. Philip Caryl Jessup, professor of international law at Columbia university, in a commencement address.

"To my mind," he explains, "nothing is more obnoxious to our professions and to our real feelings than the idea that we will, no matter how benevolently, impose upon the world a 'pax Americana' or a 'pax Brit-Americana.'"

He grew up on Kipling, Dr. Jessup admits, but he thinks Kipling went out of his way to build up "false and pernicious ideas." He did not understand the East as realistic observers do now. He wrote in a smugly superior way of "the White Man's burden." We shall never again be able to talk in that way, says Jessup. Imperialism is out, and Asiatic wars of western nations are out. Special rights and privileges, concessions and open doors, have tumbled about the white man's ears. The professor thanks God for it. "We have been hurt in the fall," he admits, "but our friends in China and India and elsewhere, acting as their own architects, will raise more durable and more beautiful buildings."

If all this is true, then the sooner Americans grasp the facts and act on them, the better it will be for everybody.

Repairing Physical Defects

THE UNITED STATES ARMY is becoming the greatest rehabilitation outfit in American history. Young men are no longer turned down for physical defects that can be corrected, but are taken promptly into the service and fixed up at government expense. Dentistry and surgery from now on will be done as a matter of course. Under the plan recently adopted, men may have the work done by private doctors and dentists if they prefer, and the government will pay for the job. But the army itself is now equipped for such work.

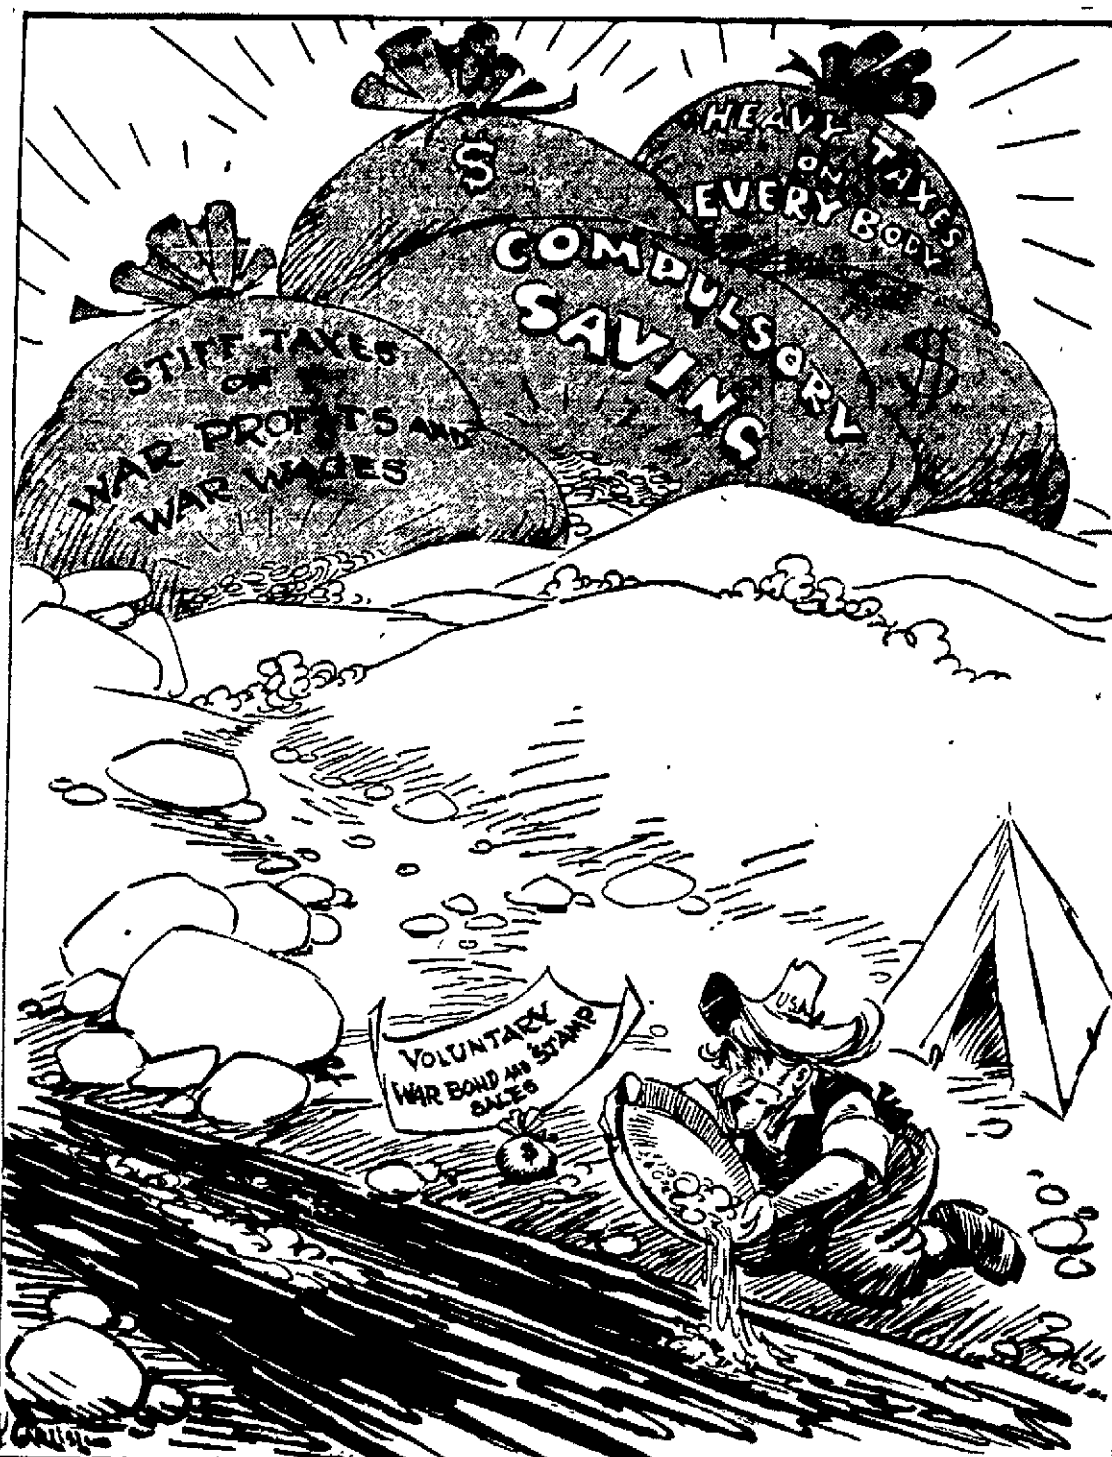

The rules, too, are far more liberal now with regard to dental and other minor defects. No longer does a registrant need a full set of sound natural teeth, or anywhere near it. By the new standards men are said to be eligible without any upper teeth, and with only enough below for the secure anchoring of dentures. This rule greatly simplifies the enlistment problem and at the same time performs a fine service for great numbers of young men.

Old 'Best Seller' Revived

AN AUTHOR of whose works 18,000,000 copies were sold in 20 years is a "best-seller," even by American standards. He is not an American writer, nor is this the country in which the record of sales was made. He is the late Count Leo Tolstoy, Russian novelist, whose "War and Peace" and "Anna Karenina" have generally been ranked among the greatest novels ever written.

"War and Peace" has come again into the picture, thanks to its account of Napoleon's invasion of Russia.

PLENTY OF GOLD IN THEM THAR HILLS

Churchill Gaining In Optimism

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Putting together two of Winston Churchill's statements in recent speeches, it is a rather simple deduction that he really hopes for the war to end by Christmas, so far as Hitler is concerned, THIS Christmas. Not the end of the war by that time—Japan will remain to be dealt with—but the collapse of Hitler.

The first of these two statements was in his broadcast, when he said that Nazi losses in Russia alone so far had exceeded total German losses of World War No. 1. He mentioned no figures, but more than 1,700,000 Germans were killed, not counting wounded and captured, in World War No. 1.

THE second was that while we had not yet reached the crest, we were in sight of it! The "crest" is when Germany faces another winter of fighting in Russia! That will smash morale behind the German lines, Mr. Churchill believes, when the cold of next November turns into the bitter frigidities of December along that Russian battle line. Mr. Churchill is assuming, in this premise, that we will reach the "crest" now in sight. That means he does not believe there will be such a Nazi victory in the warm weather of this summer as to prevent the collapse of German morale when cold weather sets in. In short, he does not believe the Germans will win through to the oil fields of the Caucasus this summer.

Otherwise, we would be driven back out of sight of the "crest" in the next few months. Mr. Churchill is not given to overstatement—nor to undue optimism in his public utterances. Quite the contrary. Since his famous "blood, sweat and tears" speech he has baffled the propaganda agencies of the Reich by predicting disaster after disaster before the final victory.

His hope for collapse in Germany by December is based largely on the number of Germans who have died in Russia—more than 1,700,000, and in less than a year! No one knows how many of that 1,700,000 were killed in action, and how many froze to death. Certainly the German people behind the lines do not know. But in view of the demands that they give up their wool and their blankets for the soldiers in Russia, they are apt to suspect that a large percentage were frozen.

THE British radio broadcasts aimed at Germany have been stressing this matter of German soldiers dying in Russia—one every time the clock ticks six times. What is said on these broadcasts gets round in Germany, despite the Gestapo and the severe penalties for listening to foreign broadcasts.

Add to this, as you imagine the onset of another central European winter—the fact that there is not enough fuel allowed German civilians. So that the folks at home will be shivering as well as thinking of their boys freezing in a hopeless war. That is why Mr. Churchill is so anxious to concentrate on Hitler NOW—this summer—despite what the Japs may do in the southwest Pacific, so as to make sure there will be no German victory to cure the pessimism he is counting on to produce Germany's collapse by Christmas.

Lonely Women

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'VE READ many a fine article by Margaret Culkin Banning, but never, I think, a finer one than that in a recent issue of a popular weekly. For Margaret Banning wrote about war loneliness and she wrote about it straight from the shoulder.

There are so many things women can endure triumphantly . . . things for which they need neither pity nor comfort. But this business of loneliness, of separation from their men, is a strain no words can heal.

I doubt if in all human agony there is any pain to equal loneliness. Loneliness for the best loved—even Christ echoed that on His cross when He cried, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" And the women who cry silently in their loneliness to day are bearing as bitter a burden as any soldier ever faced.

They are dying, literally, that democracy may live. They are giving all their personal hope and desire that a greater dream may go on—the dream of America.

Every day their letters come to me . . . sometimes tear-stained . . . sometimes arid with a terrible anguish. They are young, these women who write to me. They are sweet and warm and flushed with eager love. And yet they are doomed to live in hopeless loneliness.

We are giving medals to men who dive through Jap air fleets, who carry the wounded through vicious jungles, and save the drowning.

WE SHOULD GIVE MEDALS ALSO. I THINK TO THE WOMEN WHO WAIT ALONE AT HOME, WITHOUT CONSOLATION.

TO THE MOTHERS WHO HAVE SEEN THEIR BOYS MARCH OUT OF THEIR LIVES FOREVER.

TO THE WIVES WHO LIVE IN TERROR BRINGING THEIR BABES UP FATHERLESS.

There are many forms of heroism; theirs is not the least. They, too, wear a sword through their hearts.

This is a salute to them.

This is a salute to the women of America who are enduring the terrible price of Democracy.

Soviets Won't Permit Delivery Of U.S. Planes By Alaska Route

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Strange as it may seem, the Russians, even today, will not permit the delivery of planes from the United States by way of Alaska and the Bering straits to Siberia.

The trouble is not in the route. It is no secret that on the American side, the bases are ready or nearly ready. There are no long hops involved—no over-water hops at all, except the Bering sea, which is very narrow at the straits. The Army Air Force Ferrying Command is ready to do the job—as soon as the Russians will permit.

But the Russians, dire as is their need for equipment, regard the danger from Japan as more acute. If they permitted the United States to make such deliveries, this would constitute a new U. S. Soviet partnership for war, and would breach the agreement between the Soviets and the Japs regarding the Pacific.

Not long ago the U. S. army proposed to send about thirty experts, not in uniform, to inspect runways and installations to make sure that U. S. types of planes were equipped to operate on Siberian airports. But the Russians said no.

U. S. Reaction.

REACTION to this is partly impatience, partly sympathy. We are anxious to get the planes to department to the draw since I came to Washington.

Old Gravy Train.

MISS JESSIE SUMNER is serving only her second term in congress but the blond, effusive Illinois representative can give some of her veteran colleagues a bizarre lesson when it comes to protecting the interests of constituents.

At a hearing of the house banking committee on a bill to aid small business, Miss Sumner closely questioned Major George C. Smith of the army and navy munitions board about a regulation against the payment of brokerage fees on war contracts.

"Do you know of any contract that has been voided for that reason?" she inquired. Smith replied that "offhand" he knew of none.

"Are you ready to assure this committee that a contract would be voided if it could be shown that one of these brokers had collected a fee?" persisted Miss Sumner.

"The army would have no other choice," said Smith. "It is a legal requirement. They must void it."

"Well, it seems very astonishing to me," retorted Miss Sumner, "because every congressman knows of people who are negotiating contracts, and that certain people are getting 5 per cent of large contracts, and still no contracts are voided."

"Does the lady know of one case where that has been done, where the contract has not been voided?" broke in Representative Wright Patman of Texas.

War Flashes.

BELGIAN anti-Axis saboteurs have blown up one of the largest synthetic fertilizer plants in their country. This is a serious blow to the Nazis, who have been using the output of this plant for food production in Germany. . . . For more than a month there have been no cereals of any kind on the Sofia market. Also the lack of feed, commandeered by the Nazis, is so severe that thousands of horses have died of starvation.

Four small Buffalo concerns are demonstrating that where there is a will there is a way to aid war production. Three of them, tombstone manufacturers, have obtained contracts to sandblast castings for battleships and machine-gun mounts. The fourth, which formerly made wig-wag turn signals for trucks, is now making armaments parts.

A Farmer's Diary

Dentist-Farmer

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE only farmer I know who is also a city dentist, lives over the hills from us, at the edge of our village. He is a quiet, unpretentious, common sense man, with a great fondness for young people. I talked with him, sitting in his car, upon our barn bridge.

"People ask me why I'd move to a forty-acre farm so far from my office," he said, "but my wife and I like it here. I suppose I can't claim to be a real farmer, any more—I don't do the work myself—but I grew up on a farm and I find it's quite simple to show the man who helps me what to do, if he gets in a pinch. Seems to me it gives a man balance to know he wouldn't starve, even if his professional training failed him."

"I read the stuff you write—most of it I believe in. This writing business has a number of angles, doesn't it? I worked two years or so on a paper about pathology. I recorded some of the things I had learned in my dental experience. And read up on a lot of theories I had. I sent it off to a popular magazine—and it came straight back. It wasn't written in 'language the average person'—but it wasn't scientific enough for the highbrow journals."

"But you're not sorry you wrote it," I suggested.

"No—it had value for me. I can talk more intelligently with scientists than I could before—and I found out why some of my theories would work. It gave me confidence."

"I was an athletic lad, who came right off the farm, in overalls, to city high school. Not used to being looked down upon, for anything, you know, but right away I discovered that it would take all my athletic prowess to hold me a social rating among the crowd that made up the team. Many of the other boys came from wealthy homes. They spent more money for a single suit of clothes than I did for a whole school term. When they went away to football games, they stayed over the week-end and most likely came back with a hangover. I'd made the first team, though, and I didn't quit. . . . Afterward, when I'd got my practice going, and the big depression knocked the bottom out of things, some of those fellows who'd had everything came to my office to borrow money for meals."

"Self confidence is a wonderful part of living, I believe. Farm boys learn to tackle hard things and not give up—they break coils and handle machinery and learn to know that a big patch in the right place can be mighty respectable."

"Just then our two-year-old thrust its toothy grin over the edge of the car door. As usual, he had a smudge upon his nose. "What do you think of one like that?" I asked.

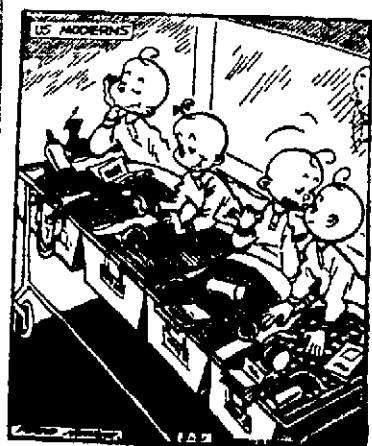

"Little fellows like him make us sorry ours are all grown up," he declared. "It's nice when they're little enough that you can still do things for 'em."

CITY PLUNGES INTO WAR WORK WITH A GRIN

Mansfield's Proud of Part in Manufacturing and Bond Selling.

(Editor's Note: This article, the fourth in a series on how the average Ohioan has been affected by and what he has contributed to the war effort, was written for the Associated Press by Robert E. Rogers of the News-Journal staff.)

By ROBERT ROGERS
Written for The Associated Press
Folks who last summer sang, "There'll Be Some Changes Made," didn't know the half of it. There've been plenty of changes in this north central Ohio city of 37,000, but folks have shown in the past five months they can take it.

While sons go to the armed services, residents still can smile and kid about the sugar they have stored in the attic, or how they are riding junior's bike to work, or how they're worried about the missus running the tires by running the car against the curbstone.

Yes, it's evident that folks here are proud and eager to do their share in the tremendous war job—and they're getting a kick out of doing without many luxuries.

They've found out that they can get places by walking. They're driving slower to conserve tires and are sharing rides with neighbors they never knew before. Fatalities and accidents for the first four months of 1942 have totaled fewer than one-half of the number recorded during the corresponding period a year ago.

Folks who used to motor 60 and 70 miles for an evening's entertainment have become a lot more conscious about geography. They're spending evenings at home with a newspaper or tending a "victory" garden, hundreds of which dot every vacant lot and backyard.

They're talking about traction splints and the symptoms for shock. Approximately 3,000 persons enrolled in first aid classes are learning something they have always wanted to know but never took time to investigate. They are finding a pleasure in doing something worthwhile.

The same thing is true about other phases of civilian defense. Mansfielders believe "it can happen here," and they are preparing in a big way to cope with the situation, whatever it may be. A total of 1,200 volunteers are ready to man their posts in the event of a catastrophe.

Mansfield men discovered they could get along on one razor blade a week. And they found that it's no trouble at all to put away the empty shaving cream and toothpaste tube to turn in for a new purchase.

Most people have taken a personal pleasure in digging up all the scrap metal they could find, cleaning the attic and basement of papers and rags. They did it in a city-wide drive, and they'll do it again.

Practically everyone has liked the new war time. And they have become pretty well accustomed to the weather being a military secret.

Their frame of mind has made the complete switch from defense psychology to war psychology. In social circles women have abandoned luncheons and used the funds for the purchase of war savings stamps. At home they learned to accustom themselves to less sugar by using sugarless recipes in preparing daily meals.

Mrs. Julia Kiene, home economics manager for Westinghouse, the city's leading industry, has launched a "health for victory" program among wives of the workers that has attracted nationwide attention.

People here also have a sense of pride in knowing that Mansfield probably was the first city in Ohio to arrange "early bird" sendoff parties for selectees leaving for induction centers. As many as 5,000 persons have turned out in a single morning to bid goodbye to the boys.

They're proud, too, that Mansfield plants are manufacturing army huts, galleys for bombers, tires for trucks, and binoculars, fuse timers, field kitchens and radio equipment.

The chamber of commerce reports that 50 per cent of the persons employed in the city are either directly or indirectly engaged in war work.

Although employment is down, due to the conversion of Mansfield's largest employer, Westinghouse, from electric appliance production to war production, it is expected that the employment curve will return to normal by fall.

The transition to war produc-

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature's chief way of taking excess waste and poisonous matter out of the blood. They help most people pass out 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start making backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, backache and dizziness. Frequent or heavy urination with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 60 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons and waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

ATTENDANCE IN SCHOOLS DROPS

Figures For April Disclose Decline Over March; Truancy Totals 53 Cases.

Attendance in Mansfield schools showed a slight decline in April from the March figures and the number of pupils neither absent nor tardy dropped sharply last month, according to reports to Supt. W. L. Miller.

The April attendance averaged 92.4 per cent as compared with 92.6 per cent in March. In April, however, only 2,297 pupils had perfect attendance records as compared with 2,711 in March.

With an average of 95.2 per cent, the Brinkerhoff school had the best attendance mark last month. Bushnell was second with 94.8 per cent.

The schools recorded 53 cases of truancy, one less than in March, and 953 cases of tardiness, a gain of 84. The Brinkerhoff, Prospect, Western Avenue, West Fifth and Woodland schools reported no truancy in April. John Simpson junior high school headed the list with 14 cases.

Avoid Making
Baby Stubborn
Says Doctor

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

STUBBORN children were not born that way. They were made stubborn, by the parents who supposed they were doing their best to prevent stubbornness.

Beginning with the infant, the first problem is to avoid practicing the child in unnecessary resistance. The wise and skillful mother aims not to hamper the child with haste nor crowd him unduly with clothes; neither does she cram his arms and legs hurriedly into a garment nor bathe him as if he were a metal doll. She always takes ample time in order to avoid his resistance and win his cooperation.

When he begins to seize small and dangerous objects from the floor, she gets them from him probably by putting something into the other hand, without stirring up resistance in him. If the object is in his mouth she is still more skillful at getting it from him.

Should she hurry him and causes him to grow angry and resist, she has taught him stubbornness. If, on the contrary, she eventually succeeds in getting him to hand her such foreign objects as he finds, approving him with smiles, tender words and loving pats, she has taught him effectually to cooperate, and not to be stubborn.

When To Spank

When your child begins to walk, you will teach him by means of spanking to always avoid a few specific things. As soon as he has learned the meaning of NO, you can change from spanking to punishment to having him sit down nothing where you can see him for exactly 20 minutes.

Remember, you will use punishment only to keep him from doing the few forbidden things; not to get him to do what you want him to do. Make painful only what he must never do; pleasant what you want him to do.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What temptation should adoptive parents be especially on guard against?

A. Of supposing, when the adopted child begins to do some bad things, that he inherited these bad traits from his natural parents. He has not. Types of conduct are not inherited as are height, size of head or color of eyes.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

I BEGAN the analysis of my I terrific problem with one premise firmly established. The gangster who had asked me to "trade," by sending a telephone message for him in exchange for information about something threatening my father, had planned to "double-cross" me, even as, I told myself ruefully, I was "double-crossing" him by failing to keep my promise to send the message he had given me.

The man who had impersonated Professor Diswell so well that, even after the rough handling attending his capture, he still looked enough like the old savant to be his twin brother, had told me that a certain gang was planning to "rub out" my father the minute he should go outside the hotel, and urged me to tell my father he should better stay safe in his rooms.

Suspects Treachery.
Knowing the abysmal evil and treachery of all the men now in our custody, and remembering especially the look of malignant triumph in the eyes of the man who had been talking to me, I was sure that he was counting on my transmitting to my father exactly the words "Tell him he'd better stay safe in his rooms."

Only one interpretation was to be put upon that. Any evil threatening my father was lurking in or near his own suite of rooms in the hotel. I must see that he left them at once, but under an escort sufficient to guard him against any danger. And Ronald must go with him.

Yet how could I warn him? I dared not telephone him at the hotel, or have anyone else talk to him over the telephone there. For my suspicion as to the identity of the man who had telephoned the gangsters from an unlisted private telephone in Hotel Lansfield—a suspicion which I could not yet verify—signified so deadly and efficient an espionage over all telephone calls that I knew I never again would dare to say anything more significant than "Good morning!" over a Lansfield telephone.

Hits on Plan

Until I could talk to my father face to face, I would not acknowledge even to myself the identity of the man I suspected of talking over that unlisted telephone to the gangsters in Professor Diswell's home. But I must not run the risk of having my father stay in the hotel, or talk over a telephone system, a minute longer than the time required to get him out of there.

For a long minute I sat tense, with ideas chasing each other around my brain. Then, as necessity pressed upon me, the saving grace of an idea came to me, and I called long distance and asked for the New York office number of Dr. Twitchell, the surgeon whom my father always called to the bedside, or anywhere else, when his investigations presented the need of medical or surgical skill.

He answered immediately, and I spoke in as crisp and rapid fashion as I could.

"Dr. Twitchell? This is Mrs. Graham, daughter of Charles Spencer."

"Oh, yes, Mrs. Graham; what can I do for you?"

"I have just learned—I cannot tell you how—that my father is in great danger unless he leaves his suite at Hotel Lansfield as soon as possible, and goes down well-guarded to—you know where."

"Yes, yes, I understand," he replied. "Tell me exactly what I must do."

Instructs Dr. Twitchell

"You must not telephone him, nor must he use the telephone until he reaches his own place. I want you to go to the Lansfield and go directly up in the elevator to this number—I gave him the number of my father's suite. Take a husky bodyguard with you, although I do not think you will have any trouble. The danger is to come to him in a more subtle way."

"Tell him I said that he must leave the hotel immediately and take Ronald with him, but that Ronald must take no baggage. Have him leave that packed so it can be sent for later. Have Father take the key of the suite with him, so that neither of them has to go near the desk. They simply are to go out of the hotel as if they were on a casual errand and meant to return. Ronald can stuff his shaving things and toilet articles in his pockets."

"Then I want them to go down to—you know where—and wait until I come back tonight. Tell my father that his life, and probably Ronald's depends upon his leaving the hotel at once without notifying anyone—not anyone. Please make that very strong."

"The Authority on Authorities"

HIGH EFFRONTERY

Did you ever have the effrontery to double a contract which you were certain an opponent could make, with extra tricks, for the purpose of scaring him into one which he might not be able to make, or at least in which he probably could not take any extra trick? That is a pretty daring maneuver and, if it does not work, it can cost you plenty of points. Knowledge of the mental habits of your opponents, especially the little matter of whether they are scorable, must govern your course when you consider such high jinks.

When the third round of bidding got around to C Edward Van Vleck, Jr., sitting in the South, he felt sure that the declarer would positively make his No Trump game easily, plus at least one or two extra tricks, and therefore a top score. Reflection on the bidding indicated that if the opponent could be frightened into trying for game in clubs, there would probably be no chance at all for extra tricks, and maybe even some doubt about making the contract.

East having bid No Trumps only once, had indicated that he might be a bit doubtful about his stoppers in some one suit. In addition, he was the ultra-conservative type of player who might be frightened by a double into taking out into clubs, especially since he had supported that suit.

EX-HUSSAR, 106, TAKES A DRINK TALKS OF WAR

Veteran of Three Wars Says Nazi Invasion of Russia Hitler's Undoing.

(By United Press)
CHICAGO—Arpad Sabados, who concluded his 44 years of military service with the Hungarian Hussars over half a century ago, greeted his 106th birthday today by master-minding a modern war from his chair by the radio.

Veteran of three wars, Sabados offers to stake his reputation—and throw in that of his warlike Magyar forebears—on his belief that the Nazi invasion of Russia will prove the key to Hitler's undoing.

"But for this folly Hitler could have been the master of Europe," he declares.

A vigorous outdoor life coupled with "plenty of wine, whiskey and cigars" is Sabados, formula for staying young. His regime includes drinking and smoking without restriction, and he eschews all vegetables for a diet consisting almost entirely of meat.

Over six feet tall and scaling 256 pounds, the burly ex-Hussar never has known a serious illness. His thick shock of snow-white hair and bristling eyebrows top a pair of piercing blue eyes, still vision perfect. Of his own teeth but three are missing—pulled out by his own hand with a pair of pliers.

"I don't believe in doctors," he explains, chuckling. "Why spend money when you can do it yourself?"

First as a soldier, then as a farmer, he has contrived to be out in the sun most of his 106 years.

Born at Losoncz, Hungary, he was the youngest of four brothers. Made a soldier at the age of 12 when the Hungarian revolution of 1848 put an abrupt end to a projected military school career, he still feels the effects of a wound received in that conflict.

By 1877 and the Russo-Turkish war of that year he had worked his way to the rank of captain in the Hussars. He received his second wound in that war, a slash in the arm from a Turkish bayonet. Asked if the Turk escaped Sabados thunders a lusty denial:

"Impossible! I slaughtered him! I cut him down with my saber!" Sabados first came to America in 1882 and tried his hand at farming in Maryland. Since that time he has returned to Hungary many times. If the war ends soon enough, he says, he would like to cross the water once more.

He has owned 22 farms and cattle ranches throughout the middle west, selling the last when he retired on reaching the century mark six years ago.

Childless, he has outlived all his relatives, including his wife, Mary, who died ten years ago at the age of 84. Since his retirement he has lived with a friend in Chicago.

White Rats Helping Pupils Learn Reasons for Proper Diet

Eeny, Meeny, Miny, Moe Help Pupils Study Diet, Health

By ESTHER SMITH

Eeny, Meeny, Miny, Moe. Sounds like the beginning of an old nursery rhyme, doesn't it?

But to the fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils at Country Day school it means more than that. It means the names of the four white rats with which the pupils are conducting an experiment in connection with their study of diet and health.

Each rat is fed a different diet to show the youngsters how a one-sided diet of sugar or starch impairs the system in comparison with balanced rations or a milk diet.

Although the experiment is only two days old the children have noticed that "Meeny" is already showing signs of discomfort. "Meeny" is on a complete sugar diet and he is prone to keep scratching himself and to display signs of nervousness generally.

Eeny is the lucky member of this experiment. Eeny has a balanced diet and stuffs himself on plenty of fresh vegetables, carrots, peas and the like along with milk and cereal.

The other two rats subsist entirely on a single kind of food. Miny is on the milk diet and Moe is fed the starch diet such as cooked beans, macaroni and potatoes.

When the experiment is completed the pupils will bring Meeny, the sugar rat, and the other two back to normal by a special diet of balanced foods.

The children have the entire supervision of the rats from keeping their four wire cages, which they built, spic and span, to feeding and weighing the rats and keeping a daily chart of their weight.

Incidentally they are learning arithmetic and stepping up their information on a number of things in addition to learning the effect of proper and improper food on the system, according to Miss Angeline Shanoff, Country Day school director.

or, who is in charge of the experiment.

They are learning how to read the weighing scales and to deal with fractions in addition and subtraction in keeping their daily charts. They are also learning how to quiet the frisky rodents so that they will settle themselves on the scales long enough to have their weight checked.

"The children talk to the rats before they take them out of the cages and then they keep talking to them until they are quiet on the scales," said Miss Shanoff.

"One of the funny features of the whole thing," she added, "is that the children never have to be told to scrupulously scrub their hands before handling the rats so as not to expose them to germs. They do, however, have to be prompted to re-scrub them just as scrupulously when the weighing is over."

SHERIFF BEATEN

Two Men Hunted In Clubbing of Adams County Official.

PORTSMOUTH —(U.P.)— Southern Ohio officers today hunted two men who slugged Sheriff Grimes Morgan of Adams county when he sought to question them about a Scioto county holdup.

Sheriff Morgan emptied his pistol as he struggled with the men in their automobile yesterday. They succeeded in taking the gun from him and fled after clubbing him. Morgan did not know whether he had wounded either.

Country Day school children are learning why they should eat a balanced diet and like it by conducting an experiment with four white rats obtained from a biological laboratory in

PAY DEDUCTION PLAN STUDIED

House Committee Seeks To Soften Tax Blow With Installment Paying.

President Roosevelt's recent suggestion that individual incomes be held to $25,000 a year after payment of taxes.

Treasury tax experts have explained in this manner the so-called salary "withholding tax" as a means of collecting income taxes on a "pay-as-you-go" basis.

Take a man who earns $200 a month and who has a wife and one child. He would have dependent exemptions of $1,600. To that would be added 10 per cent of $1,600 as an average for other deductions, or a total of $1,760. This would mean exemptions of $146.66 a month. His estimated net taxable income would then be $53.44 a month. A maximum 10 per cent collection would be made on that base—$5.33 a month. Those monthly payments would be credited as part payment of taxes when individual returns are filed on March 15.

Here's Comparison On Income Tax

The police report also stated that Finran had struck another woman, Mrs. Emily Taylor, 431

Hammond avenue, in the face as she was walking along Main street, shortly before he was taken into custody. Police said that Finran was intoxicated when arrested. Finran has been employed as a guard at the reformatory since March '32, coming to Mansfield from Columbus. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch granted Attorney James V. Will's move for a continuance until next Tuesday when the case was brought into court this morning.

Rubberneck Bus Rubbering Barred To Save Rubber

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The rubberneck bus is going to be put to more essential war use to save rubber.

Effective June 1, the office of defense transportation decreed last night, all sightseeing bus services will be prohibited and chartered buses will be reduced to such essential operations as the moving of troops, war workers, and school children.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, estimated this would save more than 100,000 pounds of crude rubber a year. The order applies to all rubber-tired vehicles seating ten or more persons and primarily used for sightseeing or chartering.

Only in case other bus or train transportation was not available would special permission be granted to use a chartered bus, Eastman said.

CONTRACT AWARDED
WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The war department reported award of a contract to General Motors corporation for construction management in connection with an Ohio manufacturing plant to cost "in excess of $3,000,000."

RICHLAND'S AAA PROGRAM COSTS $12,904 IN '40

Expenses Amount to 10 Per Cent of $122,041 County Farmers Received.

Cost of administering the government's AAA farm program in Richland county was $12,904 for the 1940 crop year, or 10.6 per cent of the $122,041 county farmers received for participating in the program, it was revealed today in a congressional report.

The administrative cost in Richland county was slightly above the Ohio average of 9.3 per cent. County costs in Ohio ranged from 2.5 per cent in Fayette county, one of the state's best agricultural counties, to 37.3 per cent in Vinton and 30 per cent in Athens, two of Ohio's poorest farm counties.

Gross payments to Ohio farmers under the 1940 program amounted to $12,241,498 while the expenses of the county associations totaled $1,049,316.

Administration costs include salaries paid county AAA committees and office assistants. Administration percentages for other northcentral Ohio counties were:

Ashland, 10.8 per cent; Crawford, 8.3 per cent; Holmes, 10.6 per cent; Knox, 6.4 per cent; Morrow, 9.8 per cent and Huron 8.7 per cent.

The allegedly high administration costs have been under attack by a congressional committee. Senator Byrd, Democrat of Virginia, who submitted the report of expenditures, said he had heard no satisfactory explanation of the wide variation in administrative costs among counties.

"If the farmers understand that $42,000,000 was taken off their checks by reasons of the expenses of the $90,000 to 100,000 county committees, I think very strenuous objection would be raised," Senator Byrd said.

DENTIST TO START MANUFACTURE OF SYNTHETIC RUBBER SHORTLY

(By United Press)

SPENCER, W. Va.—Dr. Glenn Casto, who tinkers with inventions when he's not extracting teeth, is receiving "all kinds of propositions" to finance his discovery of a synthetic rubber.

The offers come from many parts of the country, but the 33-year-old dentist is determined to exploit his invention in West Virginia, "which has the natural resources necessary for its production."

Dr. Casto won national recognition recently when he was called to Washington to explain the nature of the synthetic rubber he produced from natural gas, coal, wood and grain "to aid in relieving the existing shortage."

A charter already has been issued by West Virginia to the Casto rubber company, with a capital ization of $20,000. The incorporators are Dr. Casto, Guy Flesher, as assistant bank cashier in Spencer, and C. C. Dodd, a Spencer contractor.

Dr. Casto, whose office walls are lined with books on chemistry and dentistry, is enthusiastic over his discovery.

"It is very similar to natural rubber in that its physical properties are practically the same, but it differs in color and chemical make-up," he said.

"Very little acute material will be used in its production. The job will be one of converting equipment now available but not in use."

Dr. Casto, whose synthetic rubber was tested in the manufacture of a tire which ran some 10,000 miles while using only two-thirds of the tread, does not expect to get production started "perhaps for months." "But it is possible to get into mass production within six months at the rate of between 50,000 and 60,000 tons a year," he said. "Present prospects are brighter than ever."

A graduate of Ohio State in 1935, Dr. Casto has been practicing in Spencer since. His experiments with a rubber substitute started about a year ago.

Jimmy the Biff Lawrence, former Tiffin manager in the Ohio State baseball league, and member of the Chicago Cardinals pro football league, is still a rough and ready lad.

Reported killed in action no less than three times, Jimmy the Biff AIN'T DEAD YET! "Let me be the first to bring Jimmy Lawrence back to life for Ohio State league fans," said Dr. Paul Maxwell yesterday as he handed me a recent clipping from a Texas newspaper, with a story dated from Jimmy's home town, Harlingen.

And the clipping says the Japs are having as hard a time downing Jimmy Lawrence today as the opposition did when he was a star halfback for Texas Christian university.

Although he's been reported killed three times, Jimmy still is well and hearty and doing his bit at an unnamed station in the Pacific, says the Texas paper, and announces that Jimmy's brother, Joe Bob, had received a letter from him since he was last reported killed in an air fight over Java.

And according to Joe Bob, Jimmy isn't even in the air corps and has never been in Java. Dr. Maxwell, who returned here a year ago after 10 years in Harlingen, knows Jimmy Lawrence well, and got a kick out of the story of his altercation with Dewey Stover at the Mansfield Fairground. "He's a great guy, even if he is pug-nacious," says Maxwell. "He was the best football player in the Southwestern conference, but he missed the conference all-star team because he socked a referee and knocked him cold during a game with Rice."

Mansfield sport fans may be laboring under the delusion that this is the season for baseball and softball and golf and such summer pastimes, and that the basketball season was ended long ago.

Tuesday afternoon I saw next winter's Mansfield high basketball team battle this year's district championship quintet in a game for which the 1942-43 team has been challenging this long time.

With track practically over, the champs finally consented to the tilt and handed the under-classes a 31-21 lesson.

It was a good game for a while, the champs leading 6-5 at the quarter and 10-8 at the half, but Bob Vinbigger started dumping in his favorite one-hand shots and Paul Dietzel began connecting under the hoop in the third quarter, and it was all over.

"You've got some good boys there, Coach," beamed Vinbigger, "but they're just a little bit shy yet. They'll get over that."

Take me out to the ball game—

But just let me know first, brother, if it's to be football, softball, baseball, basketball, volleyball or pushball. I must dress pour le sport.

Mansfield Tiger Track Coach Harry Mebeck has no illusions about winning the state high school track meet at Columbus Saturday with his Fremont district championship team, but he does hope to score some points.

He's taking for sure, Elmer Liehtnin' Jones, Bill Lewis, Bob Pore and Paul Dietzel, who qualified at Fremont for seven events in the state meet, but he was still uncertain today if he could take a 11-mile relay team, which also qualified. It's a matter of transportation.

"I'd like to take 'em for the experience," says Mebeck, "even if they shouldn't ain."

Cardinal Coopers Connect

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)
THE Cooper kids from Ather-ton, Mo., are taking up this year where baseball's other brother acts, the Deans, the Waners, the Ferrells and the rest, left off.

The combination of Morton Cooper pitching and Walker Cooper catching has become a fearsome battery for the St. Louis Cardinals. Yesterday the boys made a family affair of beating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 1-0, in a sizzling show at Ebbets Field.

Mort pitched two-hit ball while Walker tripled and scored the only run of the game to snap an eight-game Brooklyn winning streak and shut out the National league champions for the first time this season.

St. Louis came close to moving into second place by the victory over the Dodgers, but the Boston Braves managed to remain a half game in front by nailing out the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, in ten innings.

The Cincinnati Reds crushed the Phils, 10-3, with Ray Starr pitching a six-hitter and Ray Lammann sparking a 13-hit offensive with a grand slam home run in the third. Homers by Ernie Koy and Bob Bragan provided all of Philadelphia's runs.

Mel Ott hit his sixth home run with one on in the first inning to help the Giants get a 3-0 lead for Bob Carpenter in the first five frames against the Chicago Cubs. Then the Bruins went to work, Claude Passeau hit a two-run homer in the sixth, Lou Novikoff singled two tallies across in a three-run seventh inning and Bill Nicholson homered in the ninth. Final: Cubs 6, Giants 3.

The world champion New York Yankees invaded Comiskey park and halted the Chicago White Sox seven-game winning streak, 4-1. Joe Gordon hit two home runs. Cleveland's game with the Boston Red Sox was postponed and thus the Yanks' first place lead was swelled to 13 percentage points although they are deadlocked in won-lost reckonings.

An-tight relief pitching by Luman Harris raised the Philadelphia Athletics out of the basement with a 5-3 decision over the Detroit Tigers, who scored all their runs in the first two frames. The Washington Senators shared Chicago's cellar spot by folding 10-1 at St. Louis in a night game.

Nova Battles Lee Savold

Looks Impressive In Gymnasium Workouts.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Belting Lou Nova, the ex-Yogi man from California, will make his bid to stay in the big-time heavyweight picture in a 10-round Navy Relief encounter with Lee Savold of Des Moines, Ia., here tonight.

Nova, inactive since he was flattened by Champion Joe Louis last September, ruled a slight favorite.

The Californian has been impressive in training workouts for the past 10 days, showing more aggressiveness than usual. Savold, who has won 17 straight bouts, most of them over unknowns, hasn't looked too good.

For Nova, the bout represents a chance to stay in the running for a return shot at Louis' crown. If beaten by Savold, Lou probably would fade from the championship scene.

Nova expects to enter the ring at 202 pounds. Savold, whose title aspirations were interrupted by a knockout by Harry Bobo last summer, will scale around 186.

Promoter Mike Jacobs predicted a turnout of 15,000 would contribute upwards of $45,000 to the Navy Relief Society.

WINS TRIPLE
COLUMBUS, (AP) — Espino Gold today became the first "triple" winner of the current British park 500 race meeting by capturing the sixth feature event and by so doing moved into the co-favorite slot with Best Seller for the $2,500-added Governor's handicap Saturday. Espino Gold galloped the mile in 1:40 1-5 in the mid.

Jones, now practicing law here, said he had not yet been informed as to the status of his application.

He retired in 1930 after making his "grand slam." He is married and has three children.

ENOS SLAUGHTER GETS DRAFT EXAM

NEW YORK — (AP) — Though Enos (Country) Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinals' right fielder and leading hitter, has been ordered by his Roxboro, N. C., draft board to report for a pre-induction examination at St. Louis Saturday, there appeared good grounds today for believing that he won't be called up immediately.

When Slaughter last appeared before his draft board it was understood that he was advised he might not be called before December.

Rigney's In the Navy Now

Yesterday, a famous pitcher in the American league. Today, a job in the navy. That's Johnny Rigney, ace right-hander of the Chicago White Sox, seen right, shouldering his sea bag on the way to his barracks at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill. Rigney enlisted as a seaman, first class.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Although Navy Bob Feller is at a station without a ball team, it doesn't look as if his arm will get rusty.

He is scheduled to pitch for a navy team against Hugh Mulcahy's Fort Devens army outfit Saturday in a preliminary to the Red Sox-Athletics relief benefit game.

Then Bob will go to Chicago to help out the service all-star outfit.

Dizzy Dean is assembling and contribute his share of the receipts to the Navy Relief society.

Cleveland, out to beat Brooklyn's attendance for its relief game, has rounded up a group of prominent citizens who used to be ushers at League park to work at their old jobs for the day.

NAMES MAKE NEWS.

Two celebrated baseball names are on the roster of the Rome (N. Y.) Canadian-American league club. Hal Chase is an outfielder and Dale Mathewson is a pitcher. Neither claims relationship to their famous namesakes. . . . Wally Pipp, Lou Gehrig's predecessor as the Yankees' first baseman, is working in the Willow Run bomber plant near Detroit.

At Wayne university (Detroit) Dave Boxer won the 117-pound championship of the intra-mural boxing tournament.

BLACKOUT REGULATIONS.

During a Sally league ball game at Jacksonville, Fla., the umpire mistook the flagpole in left field for the foul-line marker and gave a Columbia player credit for a home run on a hit everyone in the park figured was foul.

When the customers finally subsided, there wasn't a pop bottle left in the stands. . . . The next night Crowther Boyd, secretary of the Jacksonville club, had a red lantern run up the flagpole so there wouldn't be another mistake.

GAMES WANTED.

The Times-Gazette softball team would like to book games with any Mansfield team for twilight games on Monday evenings at Brookside park, Ashland. Interested managers write Dick Ohlinger, Care of Times-Gazette, Ashland.

IRON MAN PITCHES THREE IN ONE DAY

AARON ROBINSON, catcher, New York Yankees . . . Big lefthanded batter who hit .270 for Kansas City last year. . . . Native of Lancaster, S. C., he began career as third baseman with Norfolk in 1938, then moved to the backstop position with Akron in 1939.

Auditors Take $35 Guarantee

Stars Donate Services For Patriotic Cause.

The American Legion is not sponsoring the Mansfield All-Star-Ferguson State Auditors softball game for the "smokes for soldiers" fund at Liberty park Sunday afternoon, but because of the patriotic nature of the event, the Legion drum corps is donating its services for the occasion, it was announced today.

Previously it had been announced that the Legion was sponsoring the game, but it was made clear today that the Legion has no hand in financial arrangements for the game, which fall entirely on the shoulders of Johnny Villella who booked the attraction.

Villella has a chance to "get stuck" for the $35 guarantee demanded by the Columbus team, but he isn't worried too much about that. At prices charged for a similar game with the Auditors last summer at the Fairground, it would take only 100 customers to meet the guarantee.

Since Liberty park is an open park and no admission fee may be charged, it is necessary to take up a collection. Villella and the All-Stars expect a real crowd Sunday and hope for a liberal collection. They have announced that every cent received over the Ferguson guarantee will go for "smokes for soldiers."

Every Mansfield connected with the game is donating his services, including the umpires, scorekeeper, and groundkeeper. Balls and bats will be donated by Yunker Brothers.

SEEK TRACK COACH

YOUNGSTOWN — (AP) — Officials of Rayen high school today sought a new track coach to replace John Karl Russ, who announced his retirement from that position. He said he would devote his time to football and basketball officiating and teaching.

Nelson Rules as Favorite In National Pro Tourney

ABSECON, N. J.—(AP)—Byron Nelson, hotter than a July sun in his native Texas, is one of the favorites—and not without reason—in the National Pro Golf Association tourney that goes under way on the Seaview course Monday.

Nelson, winner of the 1942 Masters at Augusta, Ga., and a finalist the last three years in the PGA, was mechanically perfect Sunday as he won the second annual Massachusetts big eight tourney with a five-under par 139.

The big Texan, now playing out of Toledo, O., is paired with Bruce Coltart of Atlantic City, and Jimmy Hines of Lakeville, Long Island, through the 36-hole qualifying test which will occupy the 116 play-for-pay shotmakers on Monday and Tuesday.

One of his chief threats, Little Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., will play the two rounds with Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y., and Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Philadelphia, according to the pairings released today by Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager.

Corp. Vic Ghezzi, who will defend his title on the layout which is just a pitch and putt from Atlantic City, is exempt from qualifying but will play around with Corp. Ed (Porky) Oliver and Craig Wood, who holds the National open title for the duration, in hopes of winning the medal.

Walter Hagen, who has added specialties to his playing equipment, is paired with Leo Diegel.

Paul Waner Nears Goal

Should Rap 300th Hit Sometime During June.

BOSTON — (AP) — One day in June, only 11 days away, the baseball auditors will add a seventh name to the list of major league players who have made 3,000 hits—that of the 39-year-old Paul Waner, who was known as "Big Poison" in his prime.

Paul, who has maintained a 16-year major league slugging average of .338, is a member of the Boston Braves' outfield forces due to his age, he has not been playing regularly this season but he still is rated as a dangerous pinch-hitter.

Paul has not had any too many opportunities to hit this season but he has taken advantage of every one of them, with the result that he needs only 21 more blows during the remainder of the Braves' schedule to achieve his goal.

When the season opened, Paul had a total of 2,956 hits to his credit, 44 shy of his goal. So far, he has come to bat 82 times and has batted out 23 hits for a slugging mark of .280.

But Paul still has plenty of time to get his 3,000th hit and, at the rate he has been belting, it seems to be a matter of about a fortnight.

Ty Cobb heads the all-time list with 4,191 hits.

Blues and Hens Stopped 4 Times

Conditions being what they were in the American association yesterday, the Kansas City Blues had time to reflect on whether it was the weather or just the fifth place Toledo Mud Hens who are interfering with their pursuit of first place.

All games were postponed and for Kansas City and Toledo it marked the fourth time their efforts to play each other had been balked. On the two occasions they did meet the result was a stalemate. Each won a game.

Toledo's only victory came Tuesday and showed the Blues into second place, a full game behind Milwaukee.

Auto Thrill Show Booked

Thrills designed to test the skill and courage of professional daredevils, as well as to hoist the blood pressure of thrill seekers and to give the latest creations of automotive engineers a terrific beating will be produced by Jimmie Lynch and his Death Dodgers on Sunday at the fairgrounds in Mansfield.

Opening the program will be a series of reverse spins in current model stock sedan autos. In this event the car is driven backward at a high rate of speed down the track and directly in front of the grandstand it will be whirled within its own length into a forward spin. There will not be a dull moment, until a stock sedan is crashed high over a two-ton truck. In all there will be 22 events crowded into the two hour program. Thirteen famous stunt men will be on hand and each will have his specialty in the way of thrills and Jimmie Lynch will be on hand to drive through the entire show.

The Death Dodgers will have 12 of their new sedans on hand to use in the performance, and at least three stock sedans will be totally demolished during the show. Two will come to their final resting place in the Aerial Dive Bomber Crash when Bill Horton will race a stock sedan around the race track, drive it high over an elevated rampway and crash it head-long into the side of another car placed in its path. The car and driver will travel through the air a distance of 55 feet and reach an altitude of 22 feet.

A double fire-wall crash, a series of end-over-end rolls in a stock sedan, demonstrations of precision driving and ski jumping in stock autos and motorcycles will round out the performance.

The Death Dodgers will give one performance Sunday starting at 3:30 p. m. and regardless of weather conditions a full program will be presented.

Murder On the Avenue

By Carolyn Wells
(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XV
"Mr. Herrick," Raynor said sternly, "we do not believe your story. Furthermore, our fingerprint experts have discovered on the chromium plate of the couch on which Mrs. McCleod was found lying, several distinct marks of your own finger-prints. There are no other prints on the metal, and we are convinced of your guilt. I arrest you for the murder of Alma McCleod."

No heed was paid to his insistent denials, and Brand Herrick was taken away by two policemen.

Herrick, in his cell, was waiting for Clarence Bliss, his partner. Brand had sent for him and was wondering why he didn't come.

"Had to find out a few things," was Bliss' explanation as he came in. "Now no matter how you got into this mess, old man, the thing is how are we going to get you out."

"Not easily," Herrick said. "Who did kill her?"

"It must have been Haynes, I suppose. I'm quite sure his yarn was a lie, but I've no way to prove it."

"You couldn't accuse him then and there?"

"Why, no. I was sort of dazed, Bliss. I'm not sure I told a straight story myself."

"Oh, yes, you did. I've seen Sergeant Colby. Now, I'd see we want to pull you out of this? Chadwick and Wade?"

"They're McCleod's lawyers."

"Yes, that's why. They'll know all the people concerned, and most of the circumstances. And they're good chaps. . . . What's McCleod's attitude?"

"He's so busy being sorry for himself, he scarcely pays any attention to what's going on. His sister speaks for him, and she knows just what time the wenter upstairs—you see, the wenter father of McCleod have an apartment just above, and a little private dining up to it. The old man is dying, and so McCleod was up there with him, when his wife was killed."

"Did he die?"

"No, he has sinking spells now and then, and any one may be the last. Hugh McCleod is devoted to his father, but his wife's death has spoiled him. He didn't listen to Raynor's quiz. He just sat hunched down in a big chair, mumbling, 'It can't be. It can't be.'"

"How old is he?"

"Forty-five, they say, but he looks over fifty. The sister bosses him. She's a Boadicea or something like that."

"Was she fond of the young wife?"

"Not a bit. She hated her, but pretended friendliness for the sake of appearances."

"Could she have killed the girl?"

"Oh, no. They're Scotch, and she's very loyal to her brother. The two women got along all right, living in separate homes, as they did. But Alma had many admirers, and while Hugh was always lenient and disinclined to be jealous, it is thought that she had boy friends that he didn't know about."

"Where'd you get all this inside information?"

"Scraped, picked up here and there. And, Bliss, here's the nuisance, Alma chose to pick me for her special favor just now."

"Which led to your arrest?"

"Just that. I have never made up to her, I didn't care for her at all, she's not my type. I don't say there was any harm in her, but she lived only for excitement, and she craved admiration and flattery, and I think she was plucked because I didn't respond to her hints. At the party she made a dead set for me and—oh, well, I didn't play up. She grew angry and so did I, and I left her—not only alive, but in a rage. I went out and went down stairs."

"Who went into that room next after you?"

"The murderer, I suppose. Alma was a glamour girl, and any man who came in was in danger of her lures."

"You don't know who came in that room after you went out?"

"I can't help thinking it was Haynes, but he says he was before me."

"If so, who was it, then?"

"I don't know. They quizzed Haynes, Murray, Martin Delevan and me, and then decided on me. I didn't declaim much. Anything I could say would cast suspicion on some of the others there, and I didn't want to do that."

"You were too damn careful of their feelings, my boy. It all isn't so good."

"Fine bit of understatement. Where do we go from here?"

"Unless we're mighty careful, you'll go to Sing Sing. Shall I call in Chadwick? Then you can refuse to talk to anybody without counsel."

"Do what you think best. I seem not to have any ideas at all. I'm—I'm flabbergasted, Bliss. How could they think I killed her? She was too pretty to kill—too young and sweet."

"What ails you, man? Stop that drivel! Have you lost your mind?"

"Yes, I guess so. How long must I stay here?"

"Clarence Bliss looked at him. He was about to speak sternly, then changed his mind."

"Not long," he said mildly. "It's up to you. You're the boss, you know. Now, give me my orders."

"Yes. Well, go and get Chadwick, then. Don't get Wade, he's Alma's lawyer."

"Then Chadwick would be all for Mr. McCleod. Not so good for you, maybe."

"Nonsense! Chadwick is nobody's fool. If I can't convince him of my innocence I can't convince anybody. Tell him how things are, and tell him I want him—quick!"

"Glad you've waked up. Now, I'll send him to you here."

"Yes—" Herrick said a queer sound in his throat. Being a canny person, Clarence Bliss went out. In about an hour Robert Chadwick came. Understanding was written in every line of his strong lean face. A middle-aged man and a lawyer of good repute, he knew these two younger men, and he came at Bliss' request.

Soon Chadwick was listening to the story told by a man who had come to realize his own danger and the necessity for action. Bliss knew his partner and had done right when he left Brand on the verge of an emotional breakdown.

Left to himself, Herrick had faced the facts, picked up his courage and met the situation with the calm habitual to him.

He had greeted Chadwick gravely, and at the lawyer's bidding, had plunged into the narration of the affair.

"Why they picked on me, I don't know," he said, at last. "I didn't kill Mrs. McCleod. I had no reason and no wish to. I knew her only in a social way. I never loved her anywhere."

"I believe all you have told me, Mr. Herrick," was Chadwick's response. "And as I knew Mrs. McCleod rather well, I think perhaps I understand the situation better than you do. Mrs. McCleod was a spoiled belle. Her husband worshipped her; her friends adored her and she was accustomed to have every man she met fall at her feet. I take it you did not succumb to her lures and it displeased and surprised her. Unaccustomed to failure she determined to win you. Would that explain her actions?"

"Why, yes, Mr. Chadwick. But I cannot imagine Mrs. McCleod caring for my attentions enough to make an effort to win them."

"It may have been because you seemed unattainable. That is often a stimulus. Now, tell me again the order in which you four men were in that coat room."

"But that's what I can't do. The more I think it over, the more I can't remember clearly about seeing the men. You know yourself that you would find it hard to recall any such trifling events, not thinking, that you would need the reminder; that I did see Haynes in the hall; that I am sure of; but whether before or after I was in the room myself, I don't know. I came out of the room with a feeling of embarrassment. I was angry at myself for getting into such a fix—"

"Such a fix as having a beautiful lady beseeching me to make love to her, when I had no inclination toward her. I am not a Lothario type, Mr. Chadwick. Although I admired Mrs. McCleod's beauty I had no affection for her. And her advances made you men have so enraged her husband that—"

"Lord, no! Hugh sees no flaw in her. He is ignorant of her lapses, if any; and mind, I don't think she is anything more than a coquette."

"Perhaps not. But the Scotch are a bluff race. An outraged husband can lose head utterly—"

"Not McCleod. He might kill a lower, but not his wife. He was what could be called besottedly in love with her. Had Alma been faithful to him he would have deemed her more sinned against than sinning. A strange character you may say, but I know him. And I know her nature. She wanted admirers, adores, worshippers, all that, but not lovers. Her one love was money, that is, the things money could buy. That's why she was planning some investments. Hugh gave her all she asked, and would have given her more, but she thought investment an adventure. . . . Now, Herrick, I'm thinking you took your arrest well—I was going to say supinely, but I can't think that of you. Or did you?"

"I suppose I did. I was so taken aback—so bewildered, that I somehow couldn't assert myself. I was dazed. What can we do about it? My partner Clarence Bliss, is pretty sore at me. He thinks I lost my wits, and a lawyer ought not to do that in an emergency."

Former Mansfield Bond Salesman In High Navy Post

Edward A. Eisele, former Mansfield bond salesman with McDonald-Coolidge broking firm of Cleveland, has been appointed a lieutenant-commander in the U. S. navy.

Eisele lived in Mansfield for 12 years as a representative of the Cleveland broking firm and moved to Shaker Heights last November.

Friends here learned yesterday that he had received his naval appointment. The word was contained in a letter he sent to them.

In entering the service, Eisele will join his two sons, William and Edward, jr., who are already on duty on warships.

Eisele, himself, served in the navy during World war 1, commanding a submarine chaser on the Atlantic.

"It's nice," says proud Mother Kenneally, "but I'd rather have my boys home."

She's 85, Glad to Aid Navy Fund

MRS. MARY GRAHAM . . . she's bitter foe of Hitler.

Mansfield Mother Wants to See Hitler Beaten In a Hurry.

Typical of the spirit of Mansfielders who want to see Hitler beaten in a hurry is that shown by Mrs. Mary Remy, 85-year-old mother, who today had given a dollar to the Navy Relief campaign to help the families of service men.

"Hitler's not even fit to be a house painter," said Mrs. Remy after she called a campaign collector to her home at 124 East Second street to get her contribution. She said she was glad to give what she could but was unable to walk to the campaign office.

Mrs. Remy, white-haired little woman who came to Mansfield 70 years ago from England, has very definite opinions about Hitler and they are not complimentary.

"No man can go against God and slaughter God's people like he's doing and prosper very long," she said. "It's just not that way in the Bible."

Mrs. Remy still loves England almost as much as she loves the United States and she thinks England has withstood the Axis attack throughout the war because "the English are religious and God-fearing people."

"I've seen lots of ups and downs in my time and everything has always come out all right, but God help the world if England doesn't win," she said emphatically.

Mrs. Remy, who lives alone, follows the war closely through the newspapers and her radio, and can talk readily on current world affairs. Her sight and hearing are good, but she has trouble getting about the house and needs some help with her housekeeping. She has relatives in England and Australia so the war has been close to her from the beginning. She hears from them occasionally.

Mrs. Remy thinks Winston Churchill is a great man.

"You can usually count on what he says as the truth, but you have to take what most of those other fellows say with a grain of salt,"

"WE CANNOT HAVE ALL WE WANT
IF OUR SOLDIERS AND SAILORS ARE TO HAVE ALL THEY NEED!"

—PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, April 27th, 1942

For example, you must give up some of the coffee you enjoy—but you'll do it gladly when you realize why you are making the sacrifice

THESE days, you are being called upon to "do without" for the sake of Victory. One of these sacrifices concerns your enjoyment of coffee. The War Production Board has placed restrictions on the distribution of all coffees. This means that now there is 25% less coffee to go around, than a year ago.

To meet this emergency, A&P asks that you share with your neighbor—that you buy only one package of coffee at a time. Some customers may wish to "buy as usual", but if they were permitted to, they would be depriving a friend or a neighbor of the equal right to enjoy coffee.

In the American way, you will accept the restriction willingly. And you can still enjoy coffee by conserving it right in your home, by avoiding waste in every way. Make only as much as you know you and your family will drink at a serving—and not one cup more. Perhaps you may even want to plan one meal without coffee each week. But whatever you do, be sure that every cup you brew is the best possible.

It's far better to have one cup of good coffee than two cups of poor coffee. Follow these simple rules for making good coffee—they're easy:

1. Buy coffee that is freshly roasted.
2. Buy coffee that is freshly ground and correctly ground for your coffee pot.
3. Be sure your coffee pot is absolutely clean.
4. Carefully measure both coffee and water—one heaping tablespoonful of coffee for each cup (½ pint) of water.
5. Serve immediately after brewing.

Follow these simple, practical rules. They'll help you make and enjoy perfect coffee every time. Don't waste coffee—give your full support to our government's conservation order. Enjoy coffee and share that pleasure with your neighbor.

she commented. Mrs. Remy has a remarkable memory. She tells of the experiences on her trip to America when she was 10 and if they happened only last year.

Her father, John Whiting, came to Mansfield to do the blacksmith work on the present courthouse and sent for his family later. My mother, one sister and a brother came to Canada first and then to this country with 13 packages, the heaviest weighing 600 pounds," she related. She remembers when telephones, electric lights, automobiles, then radios came to Mansfield. Mrs. Remy is the widow of August Remy who died in 1927. She has two sons, City Detective Lee Remy and New Remy, Mansfield electrical contractor.

Read Why You'll Find LOW CEILING PRICES at A. & P.

FIRST—WHAT IS A CEILING PRICE? A store's ceiling price on any item covered by the regulation is the highest price charged by that particular store for that item during March, 1942.

SECOND—WHY CEILING PRICES ARE NOT THE SAME IN ALL STORES. The regulations clearly state that each store must establish its own price ceilings. As example, if store X charges 17c for Jones Brand Tomatoes in March and store Y 15c for the same article, during March, then X can charge no higher than 17c—and Y no higher than 15c.

WHY A&P CEILING PRICES ARE LOW. Because every A&P price has been a very low price month after month, our ceiling prices are naturally very low. For years we've waged war on needless waste in distributing foods—cut out unnecessary expense—eliminated frills. And the savings made have been shared with our customers by giving them low prices. The new ceiling price regulations will not alter in any way our policy of bringing you the finest foods the markets afford at our lowest possible prices. Come in today. Save!

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the death of our baby daughter and sister, Rev. Swoyer for his kind words, the Firehook General Home for their services and to any others who assisted in any way.

MRS. MRS. LOUIS WENDLAND, MARY, JANE AND RICHARD. (C-6)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in the News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a grateful expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also a courteous acknowledgment of the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be addressed, as whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6. Miss Lark for Rev. Swoyer, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.
